

BUSHIDO

Lunch, Japanese-Style

Bushido demonstrates that there is more to Japanese cuisine than just sushi, and this is perfectly evident from the lunchtime selections available at the restaurant.

Whatever the reason we choose to visit Bushido, whether it is for the finedining options, the imitable lounge or the ever-popular teppanyaki room, we are in for an 'experience'. If it isn't to dine, then the night owls are there to chill on a weekend with international DJs spinning some great music behind the console.

What many in the Kingdom might not know is that this Japanese restaurant is also open during the day for lunch. With the weather becoming more amiable, it's a great time to visit Bushido as the roof and French doors are open. Alternatively, Bushido's terrace will amaze you as it lies beside a lagoon and faces a beautiful green landscape. The faux grass -carpeted floor and the cool breeze adds to the feeling of dining in a valley. With its own bar, this section can be reserved for private functions that deserve exclusivity.

The terrace forks out to two separate sections, both equally grand. Dine on the deck, above the moat, and you'll be convinced you're on a floating restaurant. The Oda room, their banquet hall, opens out to this space which gives a new dimension to your event.

Cross over a wooden bridge to access Bushido's private island which, believe it or not, allows a seating capacity of up to 30 persons. With the chirping of birds and the greenery that surrounds you, tranquillity will be your immediate companion.

These, however, aren't your only alfresco options. Chill out, literally, in their lounge terrace upstairs that overlooks the island and lagoon below with a spectacular view of the sea beyond. The music played within the restaurant seeps through keeping you close to the true Bushido experience.

Sushi secrets

If you've ever wondered where the distinctive Bushido tattoos are, opt to dine at their sushi bar. They highly recommend this for lone diners as chef Dany engages you into tips and tricks of the trade.

This section is in charge of any plate of sushi, sashimi and rolls that need to go to any part of the restaurant. Choose from their extensive range of seafood, vegetables and other filling and catch the magic live. Preparing Japanese meals is as much a treat for the eyes as it is for your taste buds.

Lunch promotion

Don't miss out on their special lunch promotion of the perfect bento box. Weight-watchers can take refuge in the light version that comes at BD9. How can you turn down such a good deal?
