

Win! A table for six worth BD250 at Bushido's Halloween Cirque Le Soir event

There's something very much 'of the night' coming to Bushido this Halloween with a return visit by the seriously freaky Cirque Le Soir.

Launched as a club in London during 2009, this collection of darkly bizarre acts in their Gothic garb, quickly became one of the UK capital's most talked-about clubs. Further venues followed in Dubai, in 2011, and Shanghai earlier this year.

The touring show, which first came to Bahrain in November last year, is almost a night of the macabre as skeleton-clad stilt walkers and stunt cyclists vie for space with fire eaters and beautifully made up models and acrobats.

And now they're back for the black-and-white-themed scariest night of the year. Think super-elegant girls and guys intermingled with the almost impossibly beautiful elements of a traditional circus show with a hint of the dark side.

DJ Kirril Doomski of Buddha Bar Kiev (what an appropriate moniker for Halloween) will be providing the music, so expect a seriously stylishly scary evening.

Bushido has teamed up with Time Out Bahrain to offer one lucky reader the chance to win a table for six worth BD250 complete with a bottle of beverage and snacks.

For a chance to win just answer this simple question:

When did Cirque Le Soir open in Dubai

- A) 2009
- B) 2010
- C) 2011
